

Inside...

| | |
|-----------------------------------|----|
| Executive Director's Report | 2 |
| Around New England. 4-5 | |
| Employment | 8 |
| Safety & Training Update..... | 11 |
| Meetings..... | 16 |

Holyoke Gas & Electric has its share of "Good Samaritans"

The City of Holyoke Gas & Electric has no shortage of heroes among their ranks. Four separate incidents during the last seriously injured teenager spent a year in rehabilitation and now has a limp. Ironically, Haley learned later that both young men were friends of his daughter.

Haley said that the CPR classes he has attended at the utility made him feel more confident and not completely helpless during the situation." It's a good class to take," he said, "especially for the work we do."

Dan Courchesne, HG&E third class engineer, was celebrating Valentine's Day with his wife at the Radisson Hotel in Enfield, Conn., when an elderly man walked into the lobby and asked if someone could please help his wife.

continued on page 10

Holyoke "Good Samaritans" are Dan Courchesne, Lisa Roberts and Tom Haley.

four years prompted NEPPA Safety Trainer Linda Calderiso to nominate the four employees for the Medic First Aid Good Samaritan Award.

Last year, Tom Haley was driving home to Holyoke from Westfield when he came upon several stopped cars and chunks of concrete in the road. He heard screams coming from a Ford Explorer that had driven off the roadway, through the guardrails, down an embankment, bounced off trees and ended up upside down and facing the opposite way. One young man was ejected completely and the other was pinned under the vehicle.

Haley and another passerby managed to get one victim to lie down and then lifted the vehicle up enough so the second victim could breath until the Fire department came. Both were brought to the hospital and survived but the more

Seventh Annual Northeast Public Power Lineworkers' Rodeo Results

see page 3

